WASHINGTON D.C. – The House Oversight and Government Reform Committee Republican staff have released a video questioning President Barack Obama's commitment to the Afghanistan war strategy. In "The Case of the Schizo Strategy," Oversight Police Officers Joe Thursday and Terry Transparency attempt to reveal the reasoning behind President Obama's ambivalent call for the deployment of 30,000 more troops to Afghanistan while simultaneously revealing America's withdrawal date from the Afghan theater.

"President Obama's Afghanistan strategy belies a White House at war with itself over its commitment to the mission and a desire by some to withdraw our troops at any cost," said Rep. Darrell Issa. "Questions about who has influenced the confusing strategy outlined by the President are very real and must be further explored."
